northeast india is a region literally derived from myths and folklore with tall mountains and massive rivers it is a storehouse of natural beauty it is a veritable hub of bio cultural diversity faunal and floral diversity is richest in as bio diverse as a country like india more than a hundred languages are spoken in this small geographical region giving rise to immense possibilities for imagination and diverse thought processes this work explores the folklores from northeast india echoing strong thematic resemblance with modern literary works including those by authors as valued as dostoyevsky tolstoy shakespeare d h lawrence and so on it does come as a happy surprise that an assortment of people living in the economically backward region and perhaps the last one to be touched by modernism have literary traditions that match some of the best known literary works in their philosophical depth and scope hope this work generates greater interest in this region and a lot more people will explore it to comprehend its cultural and literary richness

since the middle ages literature has portrayed the economic world in poetry drama stories and novels the complexity of human realities highlights crucial aspects of the economy the nexus linking characters to their economic environment is central in a new genre the economic novel that puts forth economic choices and events to narrate social behavior individual desires and even non economic decisions for many authors literary narration also offers a means to express critical viewpoints about economic development for example in regards to its ecological or social ramifications conflicts of economic interest have social political and moral causes and consequences this book shows how economic and literary texts deal with similar subjects and explores the ways in which economic ideas and metaphors shape literary texts focusing on the analogies between economic theories and narrative structure in literature and drama this volume also suggests that connecting literature and economics can help us find a common language to voice new critical perspectives on crises and social change written by an impressive array of experts in their fields economics and literature is an important read for those who study history of economic thought economic theory and philosophy as well as literary and critical theory

2002 a choice outstanding academic book the struggle to forge a collective national identity at the expense of competing plural identities has preoccupied israeli society since the founding of the state of israel in this book yosefa loshitzky explores how major israeli films of the 1980s and 1990s have contributed significantly to the process of identity formation by reflecting projecting and constructing debates around israeli national identity loshitzky focuses on three major foundational sites of the struggle over israeli identity the holocaust the question of the orient and the so called in an ironic historical twist of the jewish question palestinian question the films she discusses raise fundamental questions about the identity of jewish holocaust survivors and their children the second generation jewish immigrants from muslim countries or mizrahim particularly the second generation of israeli mizrahim and palestinians recognizing that victimhood marks all the identities represented in the films under discussion loshitzky does not treat each identity group as a separate and coherent entity but rather attempts to see the conflation interplay and conflict among them in recent decades chicana o literary and cultural productions have dramatically shifted from a nationalist movement that emphasized unity to one that openly celebrates diverse experiences charting this transformation postnationalism in chicana o literature and culture looks to the late 1970s during a resurgence of global culture as a crucial turning point whose reverberations in twenty first century late capitalism have been profound arguing for a postnationalism that documents the radical politics and aesthetic processes of the past while embracing contemporary cultural and sociopolitical expressions among chicana o peoples hernández links the multiple forces at play in these interactions reconfiguring text based analysis she looks at the comparative development of movements within women s rights and lgbtqi activist circles incorporating economic influences this unique trajectory leads to a new conception of border studies as well rethinking the effects of a restructured masculinity as a symbol of national cultural transformation ultimately positing that globalization has enhanced the emergence of new chicana/o identities. Hernández cultivates important new understandings of borderlands identities and postnationalism itself.
